

A photograph of a person's legs and feet using a walker, standing on a highly reflective, polished floor. Another person's legs in high heels are visible to the right. The scene is dimly lit, with the floor reflecting the light.

After taking meth I had a stroke.

I was nauseous, my heart
was racing and my face went numb. The doctor's don't know the full extent of the damage yet.

METH CAN TAKE CONTROL
